Since we both live in Hisarüstü district, we did all parts of the project face to face (we use one computer for writing the code and think about the algorithms together). The important part of this project is communication task and since this task is not appropriate for contributing separately to the code. We think about implementation of this task and discuss about it together. Therefore, there is no significant separation of works done. We just tried to improve each other's ideas when we were implementing the game part. We tried to write most efficient functions that calculates health and locations of the towers to prevent duplicate patterns in our code. We explain all implementation of code in project report briefly.
